MR. JOEL GREY is one of the most versatile stars of American entertainment today. Born in Cleveland, Ohio, in 1932, he made his theater debut there at the age of ten. Since then, he has put in outstanding performances as a singer, a dancer, a nightclub entertainer and a brilliant light and dramatic actor in films, television and the legitimate theater.

Mr. Grey's stage and screen performances in "Cabaret" won him both the Antoinette Perry ("Tony") Award and the Academy Award for Best Supporting Actor, as well as widespread critical acclaim which continued with his later starring roles in the Broadway musical "George M!" and the film "Man on a Swing".

Besides leading a busy entertainment career, Mr. Grey is also a devoted family man, living with his wife, Jo, and their two children, Jennifer and Jimmy Rico, in New York City. In 1973, along with then Vice President Gerald R. Ford and several other prominent Americans, he received the "Father of the Year" award. Mr. and Mrs. Grey are both enthusiastic art collectors, specializing in contemporary American and African works.

Background on centerpieces to be used for the dinner honoring German Chancellor Helmut Schmidt:

The silver centerpieces to be used at the dinner are part of the collection of Presentation Pieces in the Museum of History and Technology at the Smithsonian Institution.

Silver presentation pieces come from the custom of giving a piece of silver to an individual in recognition of service or in appreciation of accomplishment. The Smithsonian Collection represents a panorama of deeds, events and persons that have been considered worthy of recognition throughout the country's history. It represents taste and craftsmanship in America at various periods from the mid-18th century to the 1920s, with one piece dating 1958.

The pieces are on loan to the White House for the dinner Dec. 5 honoring German Chancellor Helmut Schmidt. Twelve pieces will be used. Among them:

- Miniature replica of a ship under full sail presented to Adm. Robert E. Perry by the Royal Scottish Geographic Society in 1910. It is 24" high.
- The silver punchbowl presented to Secretary of State John Foster Dulles by Prince Sihanouk of Cambodia in 1958.
- The bowl from a punch set presented to Col. George Armistead by the citizens of Baltimore in recognition of his services in the defense of Fort McHenry against the British in 1814. It is a ball-shaped bowl, 12 1/2" in diameter, supported by four eagles mounted on a round base.
- A pair of large, ornate silver pitchers presented in 1838 by the Whig Young Men of New York City to their chairman, Robert Charles Wetmore.
- A teakettle and stand given to Gen. Montgomery C. Meigs in 1853 by the citizens of Washington for his work on the Washington Aqueduct.

Office of the Press Secretary to Mrs. Ford

The President and Mrs. Ford will host a black tie dinner honoring His Excellency Helmut Schmidt, Chancellor of the Federal Republic of Germany, Thursday, Dec. 5 at 8 p.m.

The dinner will be held in the State Dining Room of the White House, and will be followed by entertainment by performer Joel Grey in the East Room. Guests will dance to the Marine Dance Combo in the Grand Foyer following Mr. Grey's performance.

Emphasis in the decorations in the State Dining Room will be on varying shades of bright pink, with a focus on sterling silver centerpieces. Table cloths will be in pink tones (deep pink, orange-pink and peach-pink) in taffeta and antique fabrics. Round tables will be used for all guests, including those at the head table.

Focal point of each table will be antique silver pieces on loan from the Smithsonian Institution. Part of the collection of Presentation Pieces in the Museum of History and Technology, the pieces are considered an historic document of deeds that have been thought worthy of special recognition throughout the country's history. (see other release).

Surrounding the silver centerpieces in a wreath-like effect will be gerber daisies and ming fern. The daisies are multi-colored in shades of pink to match the table cloths. Flanking each centerpiece will be four tall silver candlesticks, some of which belong to the White House and others which are on loan from the Smithsonian and the Blair House. Ficus trees will be used in the Dining Room and in the Grand Hall.

The menu: cold smoked salmon; supreme of duckling with glazed apples; wild rice; broccoli timbale; watercress and endive salad; bel paese cheese; vanilla ice cream with strawberries flambe for dessert; and demitasse.

Robert Mondavi Fume Blanc will be served with the fish course; Robert Mondavi Pinot Noir with the duckling; and Mirassou au Naturel with dessert.

THE WHITE HOUSE
Office of the Press Secretary to Mrs. Ford

The President and Mrs. Ford have invited Academy Award winning performer Joel Grey to entertain at the State Dinner honoring Helmut Schmidt, Chancellor of the Federal Republic of Germany.

This is the first time Grey has performed at the White House.

Singer-dancer-actor Grey won the Academy Award as Best Supporting Actor in 1972 for his performance in "Cabaret." Other honors stemming from that performance came from the National Association of Theatre Owners, which named him "Musical Star of the Year;" the National Society of Film Critics and the National Board of Review, which named him "Best Supporting Actor;" and the Foreign Press Corps' Golden Globe Award.

He has also been cited for his performances in the New York musical "George M!" and his dramatic portrayal of a clairvoyant in the movie "Man on a Swing." He also appears regularly on various television shows.

Grey was born in 1932 in Cleveland, Ohio. He started performing at age 10, debuting as "Pud" in "On Borrowed Time" at The Cleveland Playhouse. His family moved to Los Angeles, and he continued to perform on weekends during his high school years with his father, Comedian Mickey Katz. He was also featured by the late Eddie Cantor in the television series, the Colgate Comedy Hour.

He began a series of nightclub performances across the country at age 19, including a headline engagement at the Copacabana in New York. He joined the Neighborhood Playhouse in New York to study with Sanford Meisner and Wynn Handman and began television performances, winning national attention for his title role in the NBC Special "Jack and the Beanstalk." He also appeared in three films.

He appeared in numerous stage plays and musicals, and in 1967 was signed for the role of the master of ceremonies in "Cabaret." He won the Tony Award that year as Best Supporting Actor in a Broadway Musical. He starred in "George M!" in 1969, winning the Variety Critics Award as Best Actor and a second Tony nomination.

He has made guest star appearances on most major television shows, including "Ironside," "Night Gallery," "The Burt Bacharach Show," "The Carol Burnett Show," and others.

Grey and his wife reside in New York City and are the parents of two children. He is an art collector, interested primarily in contemporary American and African art.

Note: Grey has received a number of awards this year, including the Israel Cultural Award from the Israel Bonds Association and the "Entertainment Father of the Year" award from the National Fathers Day Committee. President Ford, then Vice President, received the "National Father of the Year" Award during the same ceremonies in New York in May of this year, and the two met at that time.

made in declining order of precedence.

NATIONAL ANTHEMS:

It is not recommended that the National Anthems of the United States and the Federal Republic of Germany be played unless the sponsoring organization is confident that the orchestra is able to play the Anthems very well. It is not necessary to play the Anthems at strictly social functions or at formal luncheons and dinners, as awkward situations and inconveniences may result. It is not the custom in Washington to play the Anthems at State Dinners. When the Anthems are played, it is customary to play the Anthem of the Visitor's country first and the Anthem of the United States second.

When the flags of the United States and the Visitor's country are used consider the area where the flags are to be placed as a stage or a focal point, then place the flag of the United States on the left as viewed from the audience, and the flag of the Visitor's country on the right.

Background on centerpieces to be used for the dinner honoring German Chancellor Helmut Schmidt

The silver centerpieces to be used at the dinner are part of the collection of Presentation Pieces in the Museum of History and Technology at the Smithsonian Institution.

Silver presentation pieces come from the custom of giving a piece of silver to an individual in recognition of service or in appreciation of accomplishment. The Smithsonian Collection represents a panorama of deeds, events and persons that have been considered worthy of recognition throughout the country's history. It represents taste and craftsmanship in America at various periods from the mid-18th century to the 1920s, with one piece dating 1958.

The pieces are on loan to the White House for the dinner December 5 honoring German Chancellor Helmut Schmidt. Twelve pieces will be used. Among them:

- Miniature replica of a ship under full sail presented to Admiral Robert E. Perry by the Royal Scottish Geographic Society in 1910. It is 24" high.
- The silver punchbowl presented to Secretary of State John Foster Dulles by Prince Sihanouk of Cambodia in 1958.
- The bowl from a punch set presented to Colonel George Armistead by the citizens of Baltimore in recognition of his services in the defense of Fort McHenry against the British in 1814. It is a ball-shaped bowl, 12 1/2" in diameter, supported by four eagles mounted on a round base.
- A pair of large, ornate silver pitchers presented in 1838 by the Whig Young Men of New York City to their chairman, Robert Charles Wetmore.
- A teakettle and stand given to General Montgomery C. Meigs in 1853 by the citizens of Washington for his work on the Washington Aqueduct.
