Scope and Content Note

Frederick T. Steeper is a nationally recognized expert in electoral research and political behavior. He also designed testing research in the areas of polling, focus groups, and political advertisements in more than 100 U.S. Senate and gubernatorial campaigns.

Mr. Steeper directed polling programs for President Richard Nixon in 1972 and President Gerald Ford in 1976 and served as the senior polling consultant for the George H. W. Bush Presidential campaigns in 1988 and 1992. Most recently, he served as one of the two principal focus group and polling consultants for the George W. Bush Presidential campaign in 2000.

During his career, Mr. Steeper also worked at the University of Michigan Survey and Research Center, Market Opinion Research, and Electoral Politics Research and Consulting Group.

(Boxes 59-93, 15.3 linear feet)

This series contains surveys, questionnaire results, fact books, polls, publications, and correspondence. Michigan based materials account for the largest section of the series including information on Congressional elections in the 4th, 10th, and 12th districts; primary results from 2000; and issues surrounding Detroit. Additional topics include statewide tracking of political issues and demographics, and wide-ranging issues such as national security, stem cell research, and tobacco usage. The series also contains materials pertaining to the surveys conducted by The Americans Talk Issues Foundation.

Arranged alphabetically.
