Dear Mr. Elliott:

We wish to thank you and Mrs. Berg-Hansen for taking so much of your valuable time so that Miss Hertz and myself could have a better concept of the handling of the correspondence received at the White House.

The visit to your office on December 19 was not only very interesting but also of assistance towards the achievement of our goal -- to improve the method of responding to the mail inquiries addressed to or forwarded to the Administration on Aging. Miss Hertz and I were impressed by the progressive systems that you explained to us and feel that the White House sets an outstanding example to all government agencies.

Our best wishes to you and Mrs. Berg-Hansen. We hope that 1975 will be a most successful year for President Ford and his Administration. Miss Hertz and I will be pleased if you would communicate with us whenever it is felt we can be helpful.

Sincerely yours,

Mr. Roland Elliott
Special Assistant to the President
1600 Pennsylvania Avenue, N.W.

Dear Mr. Elliott:

I wish to make a suggestion addressed to the energy crisis and to the President's desire to reduce the costs of Federal Government.

As you are undoubtedly aware, much of the correspondence in all of the departments of the Executive branch of Federal government must receive several clearances, or sign-offs, before being signed and mailed.

It is not unusual for minor typing errors or slight changes in wording to be noted causing a letter, with the required number of tissues, to be re-typed, not once but three or four times as the letter comes bouncing back from successive levels of sign-off.

A simple executive order from the President could mandate that all letters, including those prepared for signature by Cabinet officers, or directed to members of Congress, shall not be re-typed, but corrected in ink whenever minor changes are required.

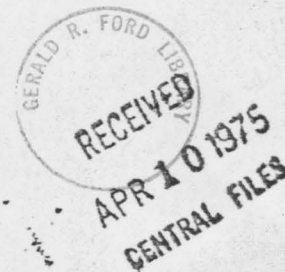

The result would be saving of electricity used by electric typewriters, saving of paper, saving of manhours, and best of all, reducing the sometimes aggravating time lag in replying to citizens seeking information or redress of complaints.

I think the taxpayers of the United States would heartily endorse this suggestion.

Yours very truly,

Roberta Brown

Dear President Ford:

On May 14, 1975, I had the occasion to meet with Commissioner Arthur Fleming, Director of the Administration of Aging of the United States. At the meeting, I was accompanied by Bette Gallagher, Acting Director of the Passaic County Office on Aging and Conrad Vuccolla of the Diocese of Paterson, New Jersey. I had found many instances of mismanagement of Federal Title III and Title VII funds here in Passaic County and had exhausted my effectiveness on a State and Regional level.

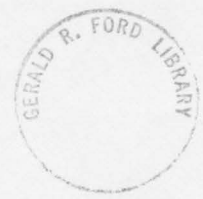

Commissioner Fleming was good enough to grant me an appointment and I am writing this letter to you to express my gratitude to you as President of the United States for the fine selection which was made in Doctor Fleming. He is an honest, forthright individual who believes in fairness and justice and I am assured that he will see to it that my allegations are looked into and that waste and mismanagement can at least be curbed here in my County.

MEMORANDUM FOR MR. WARREN HENDRIKS

Subject: AoA 1974 Annual Report

This is in response to your request for our comments on the AoA 1974 Annual Report.

Background

FY 1974 was a year of transition for the Older Americans Act (OAA)--making the first full operational year after enactment of the 1973 Amendments. Prior to 1973, the OAA provided support for discrete services designed to respond to particular needs of older persons in local communities. The 1973 Amendments were designed to develop a national initiative directed toward providing comprehensive systems of services which would coordinate, at the intrastate level, available and potential services and resources on behalf of older persons. Priority was to be given those planning and service areas and Area Agencies on Aging having significant concentrations or proportions of low-income and minority older persons. Necessary services, including nutrition, would be made available via this planning and service area network.

Summary of Annual Report

The report provides detailed information relating to major program initiatives, awards, and activities carried out in FY 1974 as authorized by the Older Americans Act, as amended. Major emphasis and detail are focused on Federal Coordination Activities, R&D, Training, the National Clearinghouse on Aging, the Federal Council on Aging, and Special Projects.

Comments

- (1) Although the Title III (State and Community) and Title VII (Nutrition) programs account for over 90 percent of the Federal cost of the OAA, less than 10 percent of the report's narrative is devoted to what these programs are doing and assessments of how well they are doing it.

The major portion of the report is focused on the Training, Research, and Data Collection activities of AoA. Note: The Administration has never requested funds for Training, and these other functions could be considered subordinate and/or marginal vis-a-vis the high cost of Title III and Title VII functions.

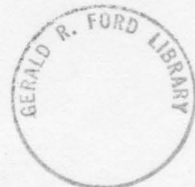

- (2) Minor editing is suggested in a number of instances (as highlighted in red). There are several areas where suggestive language should be modified since this is a factual report and not a proposal (see page 17). In addition, it would appear that all references to FY 1975 should be removed for the same reason (see page 19).

Recommendation

The lack of substantive information and objective assessment of Title III (State and Community) and Title VII (Nutrition) programs is unfortunate. It is the primary reason for the Administration's attempt to hold down growth of these programs. Nevertheless, while the report is deficient in this area, we see no reason to object to transmittal of the report to Congress, following completion of the minor revisions suggested above.

Earlier this year, I issued a proclamation designating May as Older Americans Month. In it I called for an updating of the Senior Citizens Charter of Rights and Obligations which was adopted by the first White House Conference on Aging in 1961. I urged Americans of all ages to join in the development of a new Declaration of Rights and Obligations of Older Persons to be proclaimed as a part of our national Bicentennial celebration.

I am delighted to learn that the National Retired Teachers Association and the National Association of Secondary School Principals, in cooperation with the National Honor Society and the National Association of Student Councils, are organizing a series of Youth Conferences on Older Americans at the community level to involve young people in the process of making recommendations relative to the rights and obligations of older Americans.

I know that the recommendations received from these conferences will contribute greatly to the development of a significant new declaration. The concentration by young Americans on issues related to the development of such a declaration will, I am convinced, also ensure increasing support for action programs in both the private and public sectors to replace despair with hope in the lives of older Americans.

I look forward to receiving a report on the results of these sessions.

October 21, 1976

TO : STATE AGENCIES ADMINISTERING PLANS UNDER TITLE III AND TITLE VII
OF THE OLDER AMERICANS ACT OF 1965, AS AMENDED

INFO FOR: Area Agencies on Aging and Nutrition Projects

SUBJECT : Directory of Educational Programs in Gerontology

The Association for Gerontology in Higher Education under a grant from the Administration on Aging has developed the enclosed directory of colleges and universities with educational programs in gerontology. It is hoped that this directory will help to fulfill a need in the field for more comprehensive information on the aging related activities being undertaken by educational institutions in the United States. In addition, users should find it to be a valuable resource for identifying those individuals and institutions with expertise in gerontology, capable of appropriate aging training and technical assistance services.

A limited number of copies of this directory are available from the National Clearinghouse on Aging, or they may be ordered directly from the U.S. Government Printing Office.

INQUIRIES: State Agencies should address inquiries to Directors, Office of Aging, Regional HEW Office

Area Agencies should address inquiries to State Agencies on Aging

Title VII Nutrition Projects should address inquiries to their grantor (State or Area Agency on Aging)
