FROM: PHIL BUCHEN P.

I am returning the material you sent me about Bob Casey. As I understand it, arrangements have now been made to have his nomination resubmitted and to have the Senate confirm the nominee for appointment as soon as the Senate returns.

I talked to Bob Casey last week and explained the situation to him. I would appreciate your following up to be sure that the necessary steps are taken.

MEMORANDUM FOR:

PETER MCPHERSON

FROM:

PHILIP BUCHEN

SUBJECT:

Nomination of Congressman
Casey to fill position on Maritime Commission

This memo will confirm our telephone conversation of today. The Justice Department advises that the statute which provides that the salary of an appointee to the Maritime Commission, who is a Member of Congress, shall be at the level prevailing before the current session of Congress, has not yet passed both Houses.

It is also pointed out that inasmuch as the Casey nomination came before the adoption of this statute, it may be invalid even though the statute is passed before he is confirmed and takes office. Therefore, the recommendation is that his nomination be allowed to lapse at the close of the current session so that it may be resubmitted in January only after the new statute has been passed.

Dear Fred:

Thank you very much for your letter about Jim Chamberlain.

I know Jim's parents very well and did serve with Jim on the Board of an industry with headquarters in Grand Rapids. I am not able to form a rounded judgment as to his capabilities. If he were to be considered for a particular position, I would be glad, however, to give whatever comments I could which might be relevant and to give you names of others who could better evaluate his qualifications.

I have also passed on Jim's resumé to Bill Walker.

Dear Phil:

I have just had a visit from Jim Chamberlain of Grand Rapids who expressed an interest in government service. Naturally I was delighted to learn of a businessman who is anxious to come in into the Federal Government and will advise our personnel people to be alert to opportunities in the Department of Commerce.

I understand that you know him and am, therefore, enclosing his resume in case you might wish to recommend him to Bill Walker for addition to the talent bank.

With best wishes, I remain

Sincerely yours,

WASHINGTON, D.C. 20503

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE
Wednesday, June 4, 1975

OMB-123
Information Office
395-4854

James T. Lynn, Director of the Office of Management and Budget, today appointed Calvin J. Collier of McLean, Virginia, as Associate Director for Economics and Government.

Mr. Collier has been General Counsel of the Office of Management and Budget since April of this year. As Associate Director, he succeeds Walter D. Scott, who has returned to private business.

Mr. Collier came to Washington in 1969 and served in the Department of Commerce as special assistant to the general counsel, special assistant to the Under Secretary, and Deputy Under Secretary. He moved to the Department of Housing and Urban Development early in 1973 as Director of Urban Program Coordination. From July 1973 until April 1975 he was general counsel of the Federal Trade Commission.

Mr. Collier, 33, was born in Berwyn, Illinois. He is a graduate of Grinnell College and Duke University School of Law.

OMB-119
Information Office
395-4854

James T. Lynn, Director of the Office of Management and Budget, today appointed Calvin Collier of McLean, Virginia, as general counsel of the agency.

Mr. Collier has been general counsel of the Federal Trade Commission since July 1973. At OMB he succeeds Stanley Ebner, who has entered private practice in Washington.

Mr. Collier came to Washington in 1969 and served in the Department of Commerce as special assistant to the general counsel, special assistant to the Under Secretary and Deputy Under Secretary. He moved to the Department of Housing and Urban Development early in 1973 as Director of Urban Program Coordination.

Born on January 6, 1942, in Berwyn, Ill., Mr. Collier received a bachelor's degree in 1964 from Grinnell College, where he was elected to Phi Beta Kappa, and his law degree in 1967 from Duke University. He was article editor of the Duke Law Journal.

Following his graduation, Mr. Collier became law clerk for Judge Harold Leventhal of the U.S. Court of Appeals for the District of Columbia Circuit and thereafter was associated with the Chicago law firm of Kirkland and Ellis.

Mr. Collier is married to the former Mary Evans of North English, Iowa. They have two children.

For further information call: Office of Public Information (202) 962-7144

FOR RELEASE AFTER 7:00 A.M., EDT, Wednesday, July 11, 1973

CALVIN J. COLLIER IS NAMED GENERAL COUNSEL OF FEDERAL TRADE COMMISSION, SUCCEEDING RONALD M. DIETRICH

Calvin J. Collier of Riverside, Ill., has been named general counsel of the Federal Trade Commission, succeeding Ronald M. Dietrich, who is returning to private law practice.

Dietrich's resignation was accepted "with a special sense of regret" by FTC Chairman Lewis A. Engman.

Collier, 31, currently is Director of Urban Program Coordination for the Department of Housing & Urban Development, serving as principal assistant to the Secretary in coordinating policies and programs in the area of community development at the Federal level.

From 1969 until joining HUD in February, he had been with the Department of Commerce, serving successively as special assistant to the general counsel, special assistant to the Under Secretary, and finally as Deputy Under Secretary.

Collier was associated with the Chicago law firm of Kirkland & Ellis in 1968-69 and was a law clerk for Judge Harold Leventhal of the U.S. Court of Appeals for the District of Columbia Circuit in 1967-68.

The new FTC general counsel received an A.B. degree from Grinnell College in 1964 and was elected to Phi Beta Kappa. He was graduated (with distinction) from the Duke University School of Law in 1967 with an LL.B. degree. His law school honors included Order of the Coif and article editor of the Duke Law Journal.

Collier is married to the former Mary Evans. The Colliers have two children and live in McLean, Va.

* * *

Dietrich, who became general counsel of the FTC on August 29, 1971, is joining the Washington office of the Philadelphia law firm of Pepper, Hamilton & Scheetz.

In a letter to Dietrich, Chairman Engman said: "It is with a special sense of regret that I accept your resignation as General Counsel. Your consistently sound counsel has proven invaluable, and I want you to know how much I personally appreciate having the benefit of your advice and guidance during the past several months of transition.

"In addition to a high degree of professional competence, the duties of the General Counsel require an inordinate amount of diplomacy and good judgment; you have performed these duties vigorously and conscientiously, earning the respect and esteem of attorneys both within and outside the Commission.

"While your accomplishments have been numerous, I wish to commend you particularly for your successful appeal in the Octane case, which has affirmed the Commission's vital rulemaking authority. I am sure that this will be recorded as one of the most important decisions in the history of the Commission, and it is an accomplishment for which you can be justifiably proud."

In his letter of resignation Dietrich said: "Much of the meaning and enjoyment for the past two years resulted from the opportunity to work with outstanding members of the Commission and dedicated staff who, in my opinion, have made the Commission the best of the regulatory agencies.

"I am very pleased to say that from my personal experience, I feel the future of the Commission is in good hands. I believe your proven ability and willingness to build upon the courageous and responsible performance of the past will insure the maintenance of the strength and integrity of the Commission."

Prior to joining the FTC staff, Dietrich was general counsel of the Office of Economic Opportunity. He had joined the OEO staff in July, 1970, as assistant general counsel for VISTA; was named acting deputy associate director for legal services of OEO in November, 1970; deputy general counsel in June, 1971, and general counsel in August, 1971.

From February, 1961, to July, 1970, Dietrich was affiliated with the Chicago law firm of McBride, Baker, Wienke & Schlosser.

Dietrich, 39, was born in Hammond, Ind. He received a B.A. degree from the University of Colorado in 1955, then served three years as a Naval Intelligence officer. He was graduated from the University of Michigan Law School in 1961 with a J.D. degree.

Dietrich holds memberships in the American and Chicago bar associations. He is married to the former Janice Sandberg of Glenview, Ill. The Dietrichs have two sons.

EXPERIENCE

May 1, 1969 to present - General Counsel

EXPORT-IMPORT BANK OF THE UNITED STATES
811 Vermont Avenue, N. W.
Washington, D. C. 20571

Eximbank is a United States Government agency which finances and supports the export trade of the United States. It has commitment authority of $20 billion and during fiscal year 1973 supported $10.5 billion of exports. Present business transactions occur in 125 countries involving 146 markets. It is estimated that the Bank will support between $13.5 and $14 billion in exports during fiscal year 1974--up from the 1969 level of $2.9 billion.

As General Counsel my duties have fallen into two categories, executive and legal.

Executive Responsibilities

Executive responsibilities have included being a member of a three-man ad hoc committee advising the President and Chairman of the Board of Directors on policy and operations of the Bank. In this connection I have been involved in the development and implementation of specific new management and program proposals which have resulted, among other things, in the total internal reorganization of the Bank, education of the staff towards a more aggressive role in supporting exports, writing and implementing some 24 new programs for financing exports, and promoting such programs and the activities of the Bank among the U. S. and international business and banking communities. I have represented the Bank in numerous inter-departmental and inter-agency meetings within the executive branch of the government concerning Bank policy and international economic policy. I also serve on a five-man Loan Committee which meets daily to consider and decide all transactions up to $500,000, a three-man Ethics Committee which decides the ethics or conflict of interests problems for all Bank personnel, and as a member of the Promotion and Quality Award Committees, as well as several other operations committees.

In promoting exports and describing the Bank's activities to the domestic and foreign business and banking communities, I have given approximately 350 speeches to groups ranging in size from 20 to 600 throughout the United States and in various countries in Europe, South America and the Far East. I have met with foreign government, industry and business leaders here and abroad to discuss the business aspects as well as the legal aspects of financing proposed purchases from the United States.

In the absence of the Executive Vice President, it has been my responsibility to fulfill his duties in addition to those listed above.

Legal Responsibilities

Legal responsibilities include advising the President and Chairman, and the Board of Directors of the Bank, on legal questions involved in finance, banking, trade, and other international relations arising from the lending and other financial and business activities of the Bank. It has also been my responsibility to advise the President and Chairman on all legal questions arising in the administration and operation of the Bank, and to manage the Congressional relations liaison concerning the Bank.

In heading the operations of the Bank's 38-person Legal Division, it has been necessary to supervise the work of the respective attorneys and secretaries concerning all types of applications for credit, guarantees and insurance, including the preparation of appropriate agreements, documentation, memoranda, opinions, correspondence, etc. It has often been necessary to meet in negotiations and consultations with foreign cabinet ministers, ambassadors, and other government and business representatives as well as with U. S. bankers and businessmen in concluding these transactions. These duties included direct negotiation of some of the largest transactions ever consummated by the Bank.

SUBJECT: Roger Crampton for position on the Legal Services Board

Received high endorsement from Dean St. Antoine of the University of Michigan Law School. Dean Crampton would take a sound approach to problems of the Board and would be well-perceived by persons heretofore critical of the proposed nominations. Probably would make better chairman than a regular member because of some tendency to react in an over-critical way to the performance of others when they have to make leadership judgments. Also having knowledge of Dean Crampton is Spencer Kimball, Executive Director of ABA Foundation in Chicago, who was a colleague of his at Michigan. On a call to him, I found he confirmed St. Antoine's appraisal of Dean Crampton generally and looked upon him as a man of integrity who acts decisively in a leadership role while still accommodating the involvement of others. Believes he is objectively sympathetic to need for government-supported legal services.

Dear Colin:

Thank you very much for your letter in which you expressed your interest in a position with the Federal government. I have also received a letter from Charley Frantz.

As a result, I have passed your resume to the Director of the Presidential Personnel Office for his consideration. However, I must caution you that under present conditions there are very few openings in the Federal government, and the President has appointment power in respect to a very small number of positions.

I do wish you success in finding a new position and send my best personal regards.

Dear Mr. Buchen:

Although I have met you at Kent, I don't expect that you necessarily remember me. However, because of my current position, Charley Frantz suggested that I send you a copy of my resume.

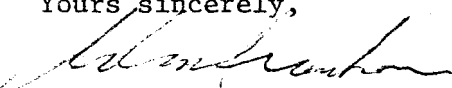

Briefly, Cambridge Manufacturing Company, which I have managed for the past eleven years for Harold Lamb, my soon to be ex-father in law, has been sold. This occurred because of my marital problems some of which involve Melissa. As a condition of sale, I could not continue employment with Cambridge after December 1974.

The resume enclosed outlines the experience I have had in labor relations as well as small business. It occurred to me that such a background may lend itself to a position in a governmental agency where a need exists for the understanding of the problems of labor - management and/or small business. It would seem that with today's economic situation there would be an even greater need for qualified people to represent the government in these areas.

It would be most helpful if you could pass along a copy of my resume to those in position to evaluate my qualifications and determine the contribution I could make. Relocation does not present a problem.

I know it is presumptuous to ask of your time but any assistance would be most appreciated.

Yours sincerely,

Colin Cranham

P.S. I have also written Bill Seidman in this regard.

Resume
Colin J.G. Cranham

Height: 6'1"

Weight: 190 lbs.

Health: Excellent

Work Experience:

1963 - December 1974 Vice President and General Manager, Cambridge Manufacturing Company. Cambridge manufactures a wide range of metal parts for the furniture industry: shelving, file bins, seating and table bases and miscellaneous hardware parts. It also paints the parts it fabricates and paints automotive parts for stamping and die casting customers.

Responsibilities: Responsible for the P. and L. Directly supervised the Plant Manager, Office Manager and Quality Control Manager. Duties included: sales contact with existing customers and establishing new sources of business by calling on purchasing agents and company managers; price quotations, costing, scheduling, purchasing, wage and salary administration and the establishment of personnel policies.

Achievements: Sales grew from $300,000.00 to $1,400,000.00; the company operated profitably. The number of customers increased five fold. A new plant was built in 1969 and the operation was moved with a minimum loss of production. Tuesday 6/1/76

10:15 Phil Areeda called to say that Don Crockett is one of those being considered for General Counsel of the Renegotiation Board. Mr. Areeda knows him; he is a former student of his. He's very good and also was very helpful when we were trying to find out what was going on there in the fall of 1974.

If a good word would do any good, he's putting one in for Mr. Crockett.

The President
The White House

Dear Mr. President:

I am writing to second, in the strongest possible terms, the proposal that Mr. Walter J. P. Curley, Jr., of New York, be given serious consideration by you for nomination to the post of Ambassador to Ireland, a post, which I understand, will become vacant in June or July of this year.

I am making this suggestion to you not because Walter Curley is a constituent of mine (he is a resident of New York) nor because he is of my political party (he is a life-long Republican). I take the liberty of making this suggestion to you because I have known Walter Curley and his wife since we grew up together in Pittsburgh and I know that he and they would serve our Nation well in Ireland.

As the enclosed resume indicates, Walter Curley is a businessman, a partner with J. H. Whitney & Company in New York. In his previous business affiliations he had service abroad in India and Italy. Insofar as the ceremonial functions of an ambassador are concerned, Walter Curley's experience as Commissioner of Public Events and Chief of Protocol for the City of New York will serve him in good stead.

What does not appear in the resume is the fact that the Curleys' have had a long continued and close relationship with Ireland. For approximately 20 years Walter Curley and his late father have owned a manor house on the western coast of Ireland and have made this their primary place for their family vacations. As a result of this, the Curleys' have many connections with, and real feeling for the people of Ireland.

Page Two

As the resume points out, Walter Curley is a Catholic, but it does not point out that his wife, a descendant of the Mallon family of Pittsburgh which emigrated from Northern Ireland, is a protestant.

I truly believe that the nomination of Walter Curley as Ambassador to Ireland would be well received on both sides of the Atlantic.

Respectfully yours,

William J. Mohr
