SUBJECT: Additional Information regarding
The Vice President's Visit to Cincinnati, Ohio, to campaign for Mayor Willis Gradison
February 20, 1974

THE LUKEN - GRADISON RACE

Here in Hamilton County is a contest that will be watched closely by the nation; the political parties have put forward candidates who intelligently articulate their political philosophies.

Both candidates are far apart in what they believe.

Both toiled long and hard in city government and local politics before asking to be elevated to Washington.

Gradison was first elected to Cincinnati City Council in 1961 after having served five years in Washington in the Eisenhower Administration. He remained in Council until resigning last month to spend full time on his campaign.

Democrat Luken had been Deer Park city solicitor and first assistant U.S. attorney when he ran unsuccessfully for Hamilton County prosecutor in 1964.

He was appointed to Council in 1965, but was beaten for re-election later that same year. He has been elected to Council in each election since 1967.

For years, the two men have been their party's leader on City Council in the role of mayor or minority leader.

In a March 5 special election, the campaigns to determine who will succeed former U.S. Rep. William J. Keating will undergo close scrutiny from the national political parties and news media trying to determine if the Watergate and Agnew scandals have damaged Republican election hopes across the country.

If Luken is elected in the First District--where only three Democrats have won this century--suspicion will grow that the GOP's national ills have hurt even qualified and popular Republican candidates like Gradison.

The Democrats already have picked up two formerly Republican seats in special congressional elections, one in Pennsylvania and the other<sup>R</sup> in Michigan. There will be four more special elections--all for Republican seats in the House.

One issue that both have gone into--and where differences in their positions are significant--is the energy situation.

Among Gradison's positions on energy are: Opposition to gasoline rationing.

Possible questions:

- (1) Why are you here for Mr. Gradison?
- (2) Are you in favor of abortion legislation?
- (3) What is your position on school busing?
- (4) Are you in favor of gas rationing? Is it needed?
- (5) Is the President, in your opinion, doing all he should to aid Prosecutor Jaworski?
- (6) Is our Middle East policy affecting our rapport with NATO countries?
- (7) What is your opinion regarding State Senator VanderLaan's loss in Michigan? Was it precipitated by the Watergate?
- (8) Is there a dispute between Mr. Simon and Mr. Ash regarding the duration of the energy crisis?

SENATOR METZENBAUM'S INCOME TAX PROBLEMS COULD ROB HIM OF SENATE SEAT

Senator Howard M. Metzenbaum's (D-Ohio) bombshell disclosure that he paid no income taxes for 1969 may rob him of permanence in the Senate.

Metzenbaum said his exemption from tax that year was justified by "unusually high deductions because of heavy interest payments and investment losses in the Cleveland Soccer Club and other business interests."

The question might properly be asked, however, why Metzenbaum failed to bring his tax picture totally into the open to Ohio Gov. John J. Gilligan before his appointment to the Senate seat vacated January 4 by William B. Saxbe, now U.S. Attorney General. The disclosure comes on top of the $118,358 federal income tax deficiency claim against him and his wife for 1967-68.

GAMBLING STOCK ACQUISITION

Nevada gaming authorities are investigating the circumstances in which U.S. Attorney General William B. Saxbe and Teamsters president Frank E. Fitzsimmons acquired stock in the world's biggest gambling machine producer, The Los Angeles Times reported.

Investigators want to know if Bally Manufacturing Co. of Chicago made gifts or cutrate sales of its stock just before selling stock to the public in 1969.

The interest in Fitzsimmons is particularly acute because his union's biggest pension fund lends millions of dollars to Bally.

The Securities and Exchange Commission is known to be looking into the recent fluctuations in the price of Bally's stock on the over-the-counter market.

Saxbe has said he sold his Bally stock in 1970, which was a year before it soared from $26.50 to $70. (The stock now goes for about $38.)

Saxbe obtained his 600 shares of Bally in 1969--about the same time as did Fitzsimmons, other Teamster leaders, and some of Saxbe's fellow Ohio politicians. (Saxbe served as State Attorney General and later as U.S. Senator from Ohio.)

---

8:00 AM President Nixon requested this breakfast through Bill Timmons' office; no subject matter given.

9:30 AM Rabbi Morris Shere, Exec. President of Agudath Israel of America, the largest national Orthodox Jewish movement in the U.S. and Ivan E. Zylstra, Administrator, School & Government Relations, National Union of Christian Schools, Grand Rapids, and Rabbi Zerfas have requested the opportunity to meet with you briefly to discuss matters pertaining to educational interest of nonpublic school systems.

You have agreed to see them per a memo of Dec. 14 from Dewey Clower.

10:30 AM Per your suggestion, a meeting w/Mr. Johnston has been arranged to brief you on the status of the Veterans' Administration. 12:00 PM Mr. Boykin would like to introduce you to Dr. Smettler. He feels Dr. Smettler would be able to build a strong support within the black community from the precinct level to the National Conference. Dr. Smettler is also the President of the United Council of Spiritual Churches of America. Mildred Leonard endorses this visit.

Judge Louis Simhauser, Grand Rapids, would like you to call the Eagle Scouts.

It is their Grand Valley Council Eagle Recognition Dinner at the Aquinas College in Wege Center. The class will be honored for their achievement in receiving the eagle scout award. Judge Simhauser suggested you give some remarks such as: congratulations on your achievement in reaching this goal and the value you place on the award and the scout training you received. If you would, mention something about the boys remembering their citizenship responsibility as they advance further in life. Also, congratulate David Houserhyde, immediate past president of Boy Scout Council (he is the president of the Mutual Home Savings & Loan Assoc.), for the job he has done and for having the class mentioned in his honor.

ALSO: they would like you to present a plaque to Bill Kephart, Scout Council Executive, who will be spending his last night with them Thursday. He will be moving on to Area Director for California/Nevada/Arizona Region (Promotion). The plaque will be the first class scout badge for remembrance of his outstanding service to the scouts during the past three years.

Judge Simhauser sends his thanks and best regards.
