CHRONOLOGY: The Status of Puerto Rico

1897

Spain, after treating Puerto Rico for almost 400 years as a Spanish colony, grants autonomy to Puerto Rico.

1898

On July 25, 1898, three months after the start of the Spanish American War, 16,000 U.S. troops began landing on Puerto Rico's south coast. In 17 days, the island is captured, and the U.S. imposes a military government.

1900

President McKinley urges Governor Allen, the first civilian Governor appointed by the U.S., to prepare the people of Puerto Rico for statehood as soon as possible.

1900

Congress enacts the Foraker Act making Puerto Rico a U.S. territory. The Act also provides that the U.S. will appoint the Governor and major officials for Puerto Rico. The people of Puerto Rico are to have a Resident Commissioner to represent them in the House of Representatives, but he will have no vote.

1904

A new Union Party takes power in Puerto Rico on a political platform that proposes Puerto Rico either be a state, independent, or home self rule under the U.S. flag.

1909

President Taft says that the U.S. has moved "too fast in the extension of political power to (the Puerto Ricans) for their own good."

1910

The House of Representatives passes a bill to grant U.S. citizenship to individual Puerto Ricans who apply for it. The Senate fails to act.

1912

President Taft proposes that the U.S. grant American citizenship to the people of Puerto Rico. He rejects the idea of statehood.

1913

President Wilson announces he favors citizenship and home rule for Puerto Rico.

1917

Congress passes the Jones Act granting citizenship to the people of Puerto Rico. The leading political party, the Unionists, drop statehood as an objective and call for independence.

1919

The legislature of Puerto Rico asks Congress to permit a referendum on status. Congress takes no action. Representative Joe Cannon tells the Puerto Rico legislature to stop worrying about statehood or independence: "You will get either or both just as soon as you are ready."

1920

Warren Harding opposes independence for Puerto Rico.

1922

The Union Party proposes a new status, the Free Associated State, imitative of the Irish free state.

1928

Puerto Rico sends a petition, through Charles Lindbergh, to President Coolidge, asking for greater freedom. President Coolidge replies that Puerto Rico is not prepared to exercise greater power of government.

1931

President Hoover says Puerto Rican independence movement has collapsed.

1934

President Roosevelt, in a visit to the island, promises economic "reconstruction at the earliest possible moment."

1935

Senator Tydings proposes that Puerto Rico be given independence "if the people seriously desire it." The majority political party, a pro statehood coalition, renews its demands for statehood.

1943

President Roosevelt recommends that Congress permit the people of Puerto Rico to elect their own Governor. Congress does not act.

1945

President Truman asks Congress to permit a referendum in Puerto Rico on the status question. Congress does not act.

1947

President Truman signs into law the Crawford-Butler Act permitting Puerto Rico to become the first territory in the U.S. history to elect its own governor.

1948

President Truman urges, in a message to Congress, that the people of Puerto Rico be allowed to choose their own form of government in a referendum.

1950

Congress enacts Public Law 600, granting Puerto Rico the right to adopt its own constitution.

1952

Puerto Rico becomes a Commonwealth.

1953

In response to a United Nations debate on Puerto Rican status, Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge said that President Eisenhower had authorized him to say that if Puerto Rico wants independence, the President would recommend it to the Congress.

1962

President Kennedy agrees to Governor Munoz' request for a new referendum on status.

1964

Congress creates a Commission to study the Status of Puerto Rico.

1966

The Status Commission concludes that the people of Puerto Rico should choose either Commonwealth, statehood, or independence.

1967

The people of Puerto Rico vote 60% for Commonwealth, 39% for statehood, and .6% for independence.

1967

HR 9691, proposing statehood for Puerto Rico is introduced in Congress.

1969

HR 499 and HR 2699, both proposing statehood for Puerto Rico, are introduced in Congress.

1973

President Nixon and Governor Hernandez Colon create the Ad Hoc Advisory Group on Puerto Rico.

1975

On October 9, 1975, the Ad Hoc Advisory group proposes the "Compact of Permanent Union between Puerto Rico and the U.S."

1976

On December 31, 1976, President Ford proposes statehood for Puerto Rico.

To provide for the admission into the Union, on an equal footing with the original States, of the Commonwealth of Puerto Rico

Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled, That it is the sense of the Congress of the United States that the appropriate status for the Commonwealth of Puerto Rico is Statehood and that the people of Puerto Rico should be able to achieve this status under the Constitution of the United States if they should so desire. The Congress recognizes that the change from the status of Commonwealth to Statehood for Puerto Rico requires the resolution of many complex issues, however, and it believes that the people of Puerto Rico should be fully apprised of how these issues are to be resolved before they are asked freely to express their wishes on changing their status from Commonwealth to Statehood.

It is therefore the purpose of this Act to establish a means by which the complex issues involved in changing the status of Puerto Rico from that of a Commonwealth to that of a State of the Union may be identified and addressed in an orderly way and the implications of such a change in status be made known to the people of Puerto Rico, and further to enable the people of Puerto Rico to form a constitution and State government so that Puerto Rico may be admitted into the Union on an equal footing with the original States.

Title I. Puerto Rico Statehood Commission

Sec. 101.

There is hereby established a Commission to be called the "Puerto Rico Statehood Commission," the purpose of which shall be to develop a comprehensive report on all the issues and implications involved in changing the status of Puerto Rico from that of a Commonwealth to that of a State of the Union so that the people of Puerto Rico can be advised thereon by the Commission's report before they are asked freely to express their desires on the question of Statehood for Puerto Rico.

Sec. 102.

It shall be the duty of the Commission in formulating its report to make comprehensive investigations and studies to determine the effect of Statehood on the political, economic, and cultural status and aspirations of the people of Puerto Rico. These investigations and studies shall include, but not be limited to:

(a) all economic issues that relate to the status of Statehood for Puerto Rico;

(b) the jurisdictional limits of Puerto Rico, including rights or interests to the natural resources therein;

(c) the effect of any necessary changes in internal revenue laws that may be applicable to Puerto Rico, including levels of revenue sharing, customs and duty collections and related questions;

(d) fair labor standards, health, welfare, social services, and education;

(e) questions of a cultural nature, including the use of Spanish as the official language;

(f) possible transfer of Federal property to Puerto Rico; and

(g) the general question of the applicability of the United States Constitution and Federal laws to Puerto Rico.

Sec. 103.

(a) In carrying out its duties under this Act, the Commission is authorized to hold such hearings and take such testimony, make such investigations, conduct such studies, and make such expenditures as, in its discretion, it deems advisable to carry out the purposes of this Act.

(b) The Commission is authorized to secure from any department, agency, or instrumentality of the Executive Branch of the Government any information it deems necessary to carry out its functions under this resolution and each such department, agency, or instrumentality is authorized and directed to furnish such information to the Commission and to conduct such studies and surveys as may be requested by the Chairman or the Vice Chairman when acting as Chairman.

(c) If the Commission requests of any witness or of any Government department, agency or instrumentality the production of any materials which have theretofore been submitted to such witness or Government agency on a confidential basis, and the confidentiality of those materials is protected by statute, the material may be made available to the Commission and shall be held in confidence by it.

Sec. 104.

(a) The Commission shall be composed as follows:

(1) Five (5) members of the Commission shall be appointed by the President of the United States and five (5) members shall be appointed by the Governor of Puerto Rico. The Governor shall appoint his members within six (6) months from the date of this Act. The members of the Commission appointed by the President shall be appointed within sixty (60) days after the Governor of Puerto Rico has appointed his last member.

(2) Selection of the members shall take into consideration, and be based upon, expertise and knowledge in the fields of law, socio-economics, and related disciplines.

(b) The members of the Commission shall, at their first meeting, elect from among themselves a permanent Chairman and Vice Chairman by simple majority vote of those voting. In the event that the members do not elect a Chairman or a Vice Chairman at their first meeting, the President, after consultation with the Governor, shall designate the the Chairman or the Vice Chairman as may be appropriate.

(c) Vacancies in the membership of the Commission shall not affect the power of the remaining members to execute the functions of the Commission and shall be filled in the same manner as in the case of the original appointment.

(d) Six (6) members of the Commission shall constitute a quorum but a smaller number, as determined by the Commission, may hold hearings or conduct study missions.

(e) Officials or employees of the Executive, Legislative or Judicial Branches of the Federal or Puerto Rico Governments who are members of the Commission shall serve without compensation in addition to their regular pay, but they may be reimbursed in accordance with applicable Federal laws and regulations for travel, subsistence, and other necessary expenses incurred by them in the performance or duties vested in the Commission.

(f) All other members of the Commission shall receive compensation for each day such members are engaged in the actual performance of duties vested in the Commission at a daily rate not to exceed the rate specified for Level IV or the Executive Schedule under Section 5315 of Title 5 of the United States Code. Each such member may be reimbursed for travel expenses, including per diem in lieu of subsistence, in accordance with applicable Federal laws and regulations.

Sec. 105.

(a) The Commission may, by record vote of a majority of the Commission members, appoint, without regard to the provisions of the Civil Service Laws and the Classification Act of 1949, an Executive Director of the Commission and a General Counsel. The compensation of the Executive Director and the General Counsel shall be set by the Commission at rates not to exceed those that now or hereafter are prescribed for the highest rate for Grade 18 of the General Schedule under Section 5332 of Title 5 of the United States Code. The Executive Director is authorized to appoint, without regard to the provisions of the Civil Service Laws and the Classification Act of 1949, such professional staff members and clerical assistants as the Commission shall determine are necessary to perform its functions under this Act. The Executive Director shall prescribe the duties and responsibilities of such staff members and fix their compensation at rates not in excess of those now or hereafter prescribed in the General Schedule for Civil Service employees under Section 5332 of Title 5 of the United States Code having similar duties and responsibilities.

(b) In carrying out any of its functions under this Act, the Commission is authorized to utilize, without reimbursement, the services, information, facilities and personnel of the Executive departments and agencies of the Government of the United States, and the Executive Director is authorized to procure expert and consultant services in accordance with the provisions of Section 3109 of Title 5 of the United States Code.

Sec. 106.

The Commission shall submit its final report to the President of the United States, the Congress of the United States and to the Governor of Puerto Rico, who shall make the report available to the people of Puerto Rico, and the Legislative Assembly of Puerto Rico within eighteen (18) months from the date of the original appointment of the tenth Commissioner. The Commission shall cease to exist not later than sixty (60) days after submission of its final report.

Sec. 107.

The Commission shall be exempt from the provisions of the Federal Advisory Committee Act, 86 Stat. 770, 5 U.S.C., Appendix 1.

Sec. 108.

To the extent of available appropriations, the Commission may obtain by purchase or rental such property, facilities and services as may be needed to carry out its duties.

109.

There is hereby authorized to be appropriated such sums as may be necessary to carry out the purposes of this Title, as hereinabove set forth.

Title II. Puerto Rico and Statehood

Sec. 201.

(a) Subject to the requirements hereinafter set forth, the qualified electors of the Commonwealth of Puerto Rico shall vote for and choose delegates to form a convention for the purpose of framing a constitution for the proposed State of Puerto Rico. Said convention shall consist of that number of delegates which equals the number of Senators and Representatives serving in the Legislative Assembly of Puerto Rico at the time of enactment of this Act and each delegate shall represent, as nearly as is possible, an equal portion of the total population of Puerto Rico.

(b) The Governor of Puerto Rico shall, within ninety (90) days after receipt by him of the report of the Puerto Rico, Statehood Commission established by Title I of this Act, by proclamation, in which the aforesaid apportionment of delegates to the convention shall be fully specified and announced, order an election of the delegates aforesaid on a day designated by him in the proclamation, not earlier than sixty (60) days nor later than ninety (90) days after after the date on which the proclamation is issued. Such election for delegates shall be held and conducted, and the returns made, and the certificates of persons elected to such convention issued, as nearly as may be, in the same manner as is prescribed by the laws of the Commonwealth regulating elections therein of members of the Legislative Assembly, and the provisions of such laws are hereby made applicable to such election. The said convention, when called to order and organized, shall be the sole judge of the election and qualification of its own members.

(c) The delegates to the convention duly elected shall meet at a time and place to be designated by the Governor. After organization they shall declare on behalf of the people of the Commonwealth of Puerto Rico that they adopt the Constitution of the United States, whereupon the said convention shall be, and is hereby, authorized to frame a constitution and provide for a State government for Puerto Rico, in the manner and under the conditions contained in this Title. The constitution shall be republican in form, shall include a bill of rights and shall not be repugnant to the Constitution of the United States and the principles of the Declaration of Independence.

Sec. 202.

(a) Upon the completion of the constitution by the convention, the convention shall provide for the submission of the constitution to the people of Puerto Rico for ratification at an election which shall be held on a day named by the convention and at which election the qualified voters of Puerto Rico shall vote directly for or against such proposed State constitution and for or against any provisions thereof separately submitted.

(b) If the constitution is adopted at said election by a majority of the legal votes cast, a certified copy of the same shall be submitted to the President of the United States and to the Congress for approval, together with the statement of the votes cast thereon and upon any provisions thereof which were separately submitted to and voted upon by the people of Puerto Rico. If Congress and the President approve said constitution and the separate provisions thereof, or if the President approves the same and Congress fails to disapprove the same within ninety (90) days of continuous session as defined in section 906 of title 5 of the United States Code, the President shall certify such fact to the Governor of Puerto Rico who shall, within _____ days after receipt of such notification from the President, issue his proclamation for the elections, as hereinafter provided, for all officers of all elective offices. The officers so elected shall in any event include two Senators and five Representatives in Congress.

(c) If the constitution is rejected at the election by a majority of the legal votes cast, the provisions of this Title shall thereupon cease to be effective.

Sec. 203.

(a) The proclamation of the Governor of Puerto Rico required by subsection (b) of Sec. 202 of this Title shall provide for the holding of a general election on a date to be fixed by the Governor, except that such general election shall be held not later than _____ days after receipt of notification from the President of approval of the constitution. At such election, the officers required to be elected as provided in subsection (b) of Sec. 202 shall be, and officers for other elective offices provided for in the constitution of the proposed State of Puerto Rico may be, chosen by the people. Such election shall be conducted in the manner provided for by the constitution and laws of the proposed State of Puerto Rico and the returns of the election shall be made and certified in such manner as such constitution and laws may prescribe. The Governor of Puerto Rico shall certify the results of said election to the President of the United States, who thereupon shall immediately issue his proclamation announcing the result of the election and, upon the issuance of said proclamation of the President of the United States, the Commonwealth of Puerto Rico shall be deemed admitted by Congress into the Union, by virtue of this Title of this Act, on an equal footing with the other States.

(b) Until such Commonwealth is so admitted into the Union, all of the officers of the Commonwealth, including the Resident Commissioner in Congress from such Commonwealth, shall continue to discharge the duties of their respective offices. Upon the issuance of such proclamation by the President of the United States and the admission of the State of Puerto Rico into the Union, the officers elected at such election, and qualified under the provisions of the constitution and laws of such State, shall proceed to exercise all the functions pertaining to their offices in or under or by authority of the government of such State, and officers not required to be elected at such initial election shall be selected or continued in office as provided by the constitution and laws of such State. The Governor of such State shall certify the elections of the Senators and Representatives shall be certified to be admitted to seats in Congress and to all the rights and privileges of Senators and Representatives of other States in the Congress of the United States.

(c) (1) Upon admission of the State of Puerto Rico into the Union as herein provided, all of the Commonwealth laws then in force in the Commonwealth of Puerto Rico shall be and continue in full force and effect throughout said

State except as modified or changed by this Act, by the constitution of the State, or by the legislature of the State. All of the laws of the United States shall have the same force and effect within the said State as elsewhere within the United States.

(2) As used in paragraph (1) --

(a) the term "Commonwealth laws" includes (in addition to laws enacted by the Legislature of the Commonwealth of Puerto Rico) all laws or parts thereof enacted by the Congress the validity of which is dependent solely upon the authority of the Congress to provide for the government of Puerto Rico prior to the admission of the State of Puerto Rico into the Union, and

(b) the term "laws of the United States" includes all laws or parts thereof enacted by the Congress that (i) apply to or within Puerto Rico at the time of the admission of the State of Puerto Rico into the Union, (ii) are not "Commonwealth laws" as defined in subparagraph (a), and (iii) are not in conflict with any other provisions of this Title; provided, however, that the State and Local Fiscal Assistance Act of 1972, as amended, 86 Stat. 919, 31 U.S.C. 1221, et seq., shall apply to Puerto Rico.

Sec. 204.

The State of Puerto Rico upon its admission into the Union shall be entitled to five Representatives until the taking effect of the next reapportionment, and such Representatives shall be in addition to the membership of the House of Representatives as now prescribed by law. Such temporary increase in the membership shall not operate either to increase or decrease the permanent membership of the House of Representatives as prescribed in the Act of August 8, 1911 (37 Stat. 13), nor shall such temporary increase affect the basis of apportionment established by the Act of November 15, 1941 (2 U.S.C. 2a), for the Eighty-third Congress and each Congress thereafter.

Sec. 205.

There is hereby authorized to be appropriated, out of any money in the Treasury of the United States not otherwise appropriated, such sums as may be necessary for defraying the expenses of the elections provided for in this Act and of the convention, and for the payment of the members and officers and employees thereof under the same rules and regulations and at the same rates as are provided in the case of members of the Legislature of the Commonwealth of Puerto Rico, and the disbursements of money appropriated by this section shall be made by the Treasurer of Puerto Rico.

Sec. 206.

The United States District Court for the District of Puerto Rico established by and existing under title 28 of the United States Code is a court of the United States with judicial power derived from article III, section 1, of the Constitution of the United States.

Sec. 207.

(a) Effective upon the admission of the State of Puerto Rico into the Union --

(1) the first paragraph of section 1252 of title 28, United States Code, is amended by striking out "and any court of record of Puerto Rico";

(2) section 1258 of title 28 of the United States Code is repealed, and the analysis of chapter 81 of such title is amended by striking out "1258. Supreme Court of Puerto Rico; appeal; certiorari."

(3) section 3771 of title 18 of the United States Code is amended by striking out "in the Supreme Court of Puerto Rico,"; and

(4) the first paragraph of section 3772 of title 18 of the United States Code is amended by striking out "in the Supreme Court of Puerto Rico,".

Sec. 208.

The first paragraph of section 2 of the Federal Reserve Act, as amended (38 Stat. 252), is amended by striking out the last two sentences thereof and inserting in lieu thereof the following: "When any State is admitted to the Union, the Federal Reserve districts shall be readjusted by the Board of Governors of the Federal Reserve System in such manner as to include such State. Every national bank in any State shall, upon commencing business or within ninety (90) days after admission into the Union of the State in which it is located, become a member bank of the Federal Reserve System by subscribing and paying for stock in the Federal Reserve bank of its district in accordance with the provisions of this Act, and shall thereupon be an insured bank under the Federal Deposit Insurance Act, and failure to do so shall subject such bank to the penalty provided by the sixth paragraph of this section."

Sec. 209.

(a) Nothing contained in this Act shall be construed as depriving the Federal Maritime Commission of the exclusive jurisdiction heretofore conferred on it over common carriers engaged in transportation by water between any port in the State of Puerto Rico and other ports in the United States, or possessions, or as conferring on the Interstate Commerce Commission jurisdiction over transportation by water between any such ports.

(b) Effective on the admission of the State of Puerto Rico into the Union --

(1) the last sentence of section 505 of the Merchant Marine Act, 1936, as amended (46 U.S.C. 1155), is amended by striking the words "and the Commonwealth of Puerto Rico" where they appear at the end of the section;

(2) the first sentence of section 506 of the Merchant Marine Act, 1936 (46 U.S.C. 1156), is amended by inserting immediately before ", or an island possession or island territory" the following: ", the State of Puerto Rico";

(3) section 605(a) of the Merchant Marine Act, 1936 (46 U.S.C. 1175), is amended by inserting immediately before ", or an island possession or island territory", the following: ", the State of Puerto Rico"; and

(4) the last sentence of section 606 of the Merchant Marine Act, 1936, as amended (46 U.S.C. 1176) is amended by striking the words "or the Commonwealth of Puerto Rico" where they appear at the end of the section.

(5) the second paragraph of section 714 of the Merchant Marine Act, 1936 (46 U.S.C. 1204), is amended by inserting immediately before ", or an island possession or island territory" the following: ", the State of Puerto Rico".

Sec. 210.

(a) Section 101(a) (36) of the Immigration and Nationality Act (8 U.S.C. 1101(a)(36)) is amended by striking out "Puerto Rico,".

(b) Section 212(d)(7) of the Immigration and Nationality Act (8 U.S.C. 1182(d)(7)) is amended by striking out in the first sentence "Puerto Rico,".

(c) The first sentence of section 310(a) of the Immigration and Nationality Act (8 U.S.C. 1421(a)) is amended by striking out "and for Puerto Rico".

(d) Nothing contained in this Act shall be held to repeal, amend, or modify the provisions of section 302 of the Immigration and Nationality Act (8 U.S.C. 1402).

Sec. 211.

Nothing contained in this Act shall operate to confer United States nationality, nor to terminate nationality heretofore lawfully acquired, or restore nationality heretofore lost under any law of the United States or under any treaty to which the United States is or was a party.

Sec. 212.

If any provision of this Act, or any section, subsection, sentence, clause, phrase, or individual word, or the application thereof in any circumstance is held invalid the validity of the remainder of the Act and of the application of any such provision, section, subsection, sentence, clause, phrase, or individual word in other circumstances shall not be affected thereby.

Sec. 213.

All Acts or parts of Acts in conflict with the provisions of this Act, whether passed by the Legislature of Puerto Rico or by Congress, are hereby repealed.

Puerto Rico election figures: sources for chart

Figures for 1952-1964 are from: Commonwealth of Puerto Rico, Board of Elections: "Statistics of the General Elections: 1960," San Juan, Puerto Rico, 1962, and "Totales: Total de Electores en Listas y El Voto Para Gobernador: 1964." Quoted in Status of Puerto Rico, Report of the United States - Puerto Rico Commission on the Status of Puerto Rico. August 1966, p. 186.

Figures for 1968 and 1972 are from The Statesmen's Yearbook, 1973-1974, New York, p. 722.

accurate but for absolute certainty I suggest they be verified by the Library of Congress or a like authority.

Note: In 1968 (see below) the Popular Democratic Party (pro-Commonwealth) <sup>split</sup> and a new Peoples Party (also pro-Commonwealth) was formed. The votes of both are entered under Commonwealth but the split allowed the newly-formed New Progressive Party (pro-Statehood) to win the election.

	COMMONWEALTH	STATEHOOD	INDEPENDENCE	SOCIALIST	CHRISTIAN ACTION
1968	52.3	44.9	2.8	--	--
1972	51.5	44.0	4.5	--	--
1976	45	48	6.0	--	--

Puerto Rico also held two island-wide plebiscites on status:

	COMMONWEALTH	AGAINST COMMONWEALTH
1951	387,000 votes (76.5% ?)	119,000 votes (23.5% ?)	NOTE: Pls. check my percentages for this June 4, 1951 plebiscite.
1967	COMMONWEALTH 60.41%	STATEHOOD 38.98%	INDEPENDENCE .6%

The overall percentages show a near-steady growth in the statehood party vote in every election starting with 1952:

12.9 to 25 to 32.1 to 34.7 to 44.9 back to 44 and rising again to 48.

Using these figures you might have a statistician make a curve suggesting the future growth--if that is the case and to the naked eye it seems to be-- of statehood.
