Dear Kelly:

I noted with much disappointment but also with tremendous pride the news of your retirement this month. It seems difficult to imagine both of us having left the University of Michigan some forty years ago, but time has served us well. Your accomplishments are particularly noteworthy in the area of aviation since your imagination, ingenuity and decisiveness were so significant to the advancements in aviation and the preeminence of the United States in that vital field.

Your achievements and awards are many and richly deserved. It seems most appropriate to have recently honored you as an inductee to the Aviation Hall of Fame. I would like to add my personal tribute to the many honors, with the knowledge that your wisdom and vision will serve as positive examples that this country needs to sustain us for the future.

Dear Mr. Ormsby:

I am pleased you have accepted the National Alliance of Businessmen Chairmanship of Region IV (Alabama, Florida, Georgia, Mississippi, North Carolina, South Carolina, Kentucky, and Tennessee) and appreciate your willingness to undertake this responsibility.

The Alliance has successfully given a hand-up to America's less fortunate individuals through its efforts to provide job opportunities and job training for all disadvantaged persons including welfare recipients, needy youth, Vietnam-era veterans with special focus on those who are disabled, ex-offenders, and through implementation of preventive motivation and education programs. Because of the striking accomplishments of the participating business executives in the National Alliance of Businessmen, I am convinced that business community support is essential in helping America work.

Your accepting the baton, so-to-speak, is another reaffirmation of business commitment, and you have my best wishes for success and personal thanks for assuming this leadership role.

Dear Mr. Kitchen:

Now that you have completed your service as Chairman of the National Alliance of Businessmen for Region IV I want to express my gratitude for your significant contribution to the success of the NAB/JOBS Program.

Over the past several years, despite ups and downs in the economy, the Alliance has persevered in persuading employers to provide training and jobs for our less fortunate citizens who lack essential work skills and experience or are otherwise handicapped. This concerted effort has made it possible for many thousands of disadvantaged citizens to break the bonds of poverty and become self-supporting. Through its fine record of accomplishment, the Alliance has brought continuing credit on the American business community. This is the finest tribute to your own important part in its success.

Your distinguished leadership has earned you the respect and admiration of your colleagues and the lasting gratitude of your fellow citizens. I thank you and hope that we can count on your continued interest and support of this splendid voluntary program.

Dear Mr. President:

Yesterday, both Houses of the National Diet of Japan unanimously passed a Resolution requesting that the United States Government make available to the Government of Japan, all necessary information concerning the Lockheed Aircraft Corporation scandal to enable our Government to take appropriate action concerning that scandal in Japan. Prime Minister Miki has also sent a personal letter to emphasize the urgency of the Resolution passed by the National Diet.

As Chairman of a Diet action group, the Seirankai, I wish to add our personal requests for the information requested by the Diet Resolution for the Following reasons:

1. To continue to withhold the information will have seriously adverse effects on the relationships between our two countries. Release of the information will strengthen our relationship.
2. Release of the information may have serious effects on our party, The Liberal-Democratic Party (the Government party), but to continue to withhold the information could destroy the Party or reduce it to a minority party. Our party is prepared to cleanse itself of anyone involved in the scandal. Failure to release the information damages the innocent and destroys public confidence in the party.
3. If the Liberal-Democratic Party is destroyed or becomes a minority party, this will quite probably change the balance of power in East Asia for all other Japanese political parties advocate foreign policies and defense policies quite different from those now followed by the Liberal Democratic Party.

Finally, may we recall your speech in Honolulu on December 7, 1975, stating that "....The second basic premise of a new Pacific doctrine is that partnership with Japan is a pillar of our strategy. There is no relationship to which I have devoted more attention...

March 11, 1976

Dear Mr. Prime Minister: TAKEO<sup>x</sup>MIKI

I have received your letter of February 24. I wish to assure you that I share fully your desire that the allegations concerning Lockheed activities in Japan be clarified without delay. The United States Government will continue to support your efforts to pursue further an investigation of this matter.

The Department of State has forwarded to the Senate and to the Securities and Exchange Commission your requests for all available information in their possession pertinent to Japan. I believe that much of the material that your government has asked for from the Senate Subcommittee on Multinational Corporations has been provided. We are prepared to make arrangements to share with your government the information developed by the SEC in the course of its inquiry.

I suggest that officials of our two governments meet without delay to work out such arrangements. These procedures would permit law enforcement officials from Japan to work in close cooperation with their counterparts here, with access, on a confidential basis, to relevant information held by United States investigatory agencies. The legal and administrative practice of the SEC is not to make public any material relating to an investigation until the investigation is completed. Premature disclosure of such information could well prejudice the investigation and any law enforcement actions which might ultimately be taken in the United States. It could also prejudice the rights of individuals, whether or not they may ultimately become defendants in criminal actions. These basic requirements of United States law and practice must be respected, as of course must those of Japan. If these principles are protected, I am sure we can work together effectively.

Arrangements such as I am describing would allow your government's inquiry into this matter to go forward without hindrance. I hope that such arrangements will prove satisfactory to you.

I agree completely, Mr. Prime Minister, that it is in the interest of both our countries that this matter be cleared up as soon as possible. I also welcome your expression of the need to develop new rules covering corrupt practices, and I hope the Government of Japan can support the United States proposal for an international agreement to curtail such practices. Finally, Mr. Prime Minister, I am confident, as I know you are, that this unfortunate affair will not damage the fundamental and permanent friendship between our countries, which continues to be of crucial importance to the cause of peace and progress in Asia and in the world.

Sincerely,

Dear Mr. Nakao: <sup>x</sup> Eiichi

The President has asked that I reply to your letter of February 24 concerning the Lockheed problem.

President Ford responded on March 11 to Prime Minister Miki's letter on this subject. The President stated that the United States Government is prepared to make arrangements to share with the Government of Japan information that the Securities and Exchange Commission has developed in the course of its investigation of Lockheed activities in Japan. I understand that the Japanese Cabinet has accepted the President's offer, and that a Ministry of Justice official has arrived to work out these arrangements.

I wish to emphasize that it has never been the policy of the United States Government to "withhold" information on the Lockheed case from the Japanese or other concerned governments. It is, however, the legal and administrative practice of the Securities and Exchange Commission not to make public any material relating to an investigation until the investigation is over. Premature public disclosure of such information could prejudice the investigation, United States law enforcement, and the rights of individuals, regardless of whether they may ultimately become defendants in criminal actions.

We believe that the procedures which we have suggested will allow the Japanese Government access to the material it needs to conduct its investigation, while at the same time protecting the integrity of the investigations taking place in the United States.

FROM: TJB

SUBJECT: Third Country Report on Japan

Ambassador <sup>x</sup>Hodgson James D. has sent you a letter (Tab B) transmitting for your information an unnamed Embassy's report (Tab C) on U. S. - Japan relations. The Ambassador commends the report to you for its good analytical judgments.

The report, presumably the work of a British Commonwealth country, is positive about the future of U. S. - Japan relations. It asserts that the United States reacted responsibly and cautiously in handling the <sup>x</sup>Lockheed affair, giving priority to political stability in Japan and to setting a principled basis for transmitting unproven evidence between nations. While the Lockheed affair has put a strain on bilateral relations, the report stresses that the U. S. - Japan relationship remains strong, and it is not likely to be undermined.

According to the report, the area that may suffer the most as a result of the Lockheed affair is defense. The Japanese Administration, the report assesses, will not want to be seen making progress on defense matters until Lockheed has moved off-stage. The LDP will likely delay the new bilateral defense committee, Defense Chief Sakata's visit to the United States, and the decision to purchase Lockheed's P-3 reconnaissance planes.

The report notes that there is a large element of hypocrisy in the
