WASHINGTON

MEMORANDUM

TO: Honorable John O. Marsh, Jr.

FROM: Charles Mott cjm

DATE: October 8, 1974

SUBJECT: Presidential Clemency Board

Please be advised of the following:

The Chairman of the Presidential Clemency Board indicated to me several days ago that he desired that the Board have the freedom of hiring their own Chief Counsel, Deputy Counsel, Public Information Officer and Administrative Officer. He understood that funds were not available for the Board to pay these people and I cautioned him that we must first find government agencies that would agree to fund these slots. I asked Mr. Goodell to definitely not commit himself to any of these people until we first obtained a commitment from an agency, and secondly that we were sure that the person being considered satisfied all Civil Service Commission requirements.

I have made the necessary arrangements with two agencies who will fund the Deputy Counsel (GS-14), and the Administrative Person (GS-11). However, as of now, I have not arranged for the funding of the two other slots, Chief Counsel and Public Information Officer. The White House personnel office is working on both these positions for me.

Last Friday I learned from the Chairman that he had committed himself to hiring Mr. Larry Baskir as the committee's Chief Counsel at the rate of $33-$36,000 per year. I also learned yesterday that he had hired an Executive Secretary for the Board. Both commitments were made prior to checking with me to ascertain if we had arranged for the funding of such positions. As of this writing, we have not obtained a commitment for either position.

It is my feeling that we can arrange the funding for the original four slots desired by the Chairman. However, no further staffing should be done without having the funds available. It is my strong feeling that no further staffing is necessary for the Board's work in the foreseeable future.

MEMORANDUM FOR:

THE PRESIDENT

FROM:

JACK MARSH

SUBJECT:

Goodell Meeting
October 29, 1974
11:30 a.m.

Background:

As you are aware, Chairman Goodell has been, at times both restless and difficult to deal with insofar as the White House, Defense and Justice are concerned. His efforts to expand the Board's jurisdiction could possibly reopen cases already settled by Defense and Justice and this has alarmed both Departments.

His staff requests, including the selection of Chief Counsel of the Ervin Subcommittee, which harassed the security agencies, has been a source of great concern in Justice, Defense, and at the White House.

His frequent public pronouncements inviting criticism and complaints on how the existing program operates has caused difficulties with officials in the Department of Justice. Generally it is found that the other members of the board are not in accord with many of his positions.

In addition to a general counsel mentioned above, he wants a deputy counsel, a staff administrator and a public information officer. At present the staff (mostly detailees) numbers about 30. His requests will probably push the figure closer to 40.

Aside from these things, Goodell has asked for a number of White House prerequisites which if granted would be precedent for boards and commissions of this type. These include mess privileges, special transportation privileges, office facilities, White House stationery, etc. These have been turned down by the Rumsfeld office.

This meeting is probably an opportunity not only to give you his opinions but also to hit you with these requests.

In all events you will want to discourage any attempts to extend the jurisdiction of the board especially that which seeks your exercise of pardon power. Point out that changes in jurisdiction must be coordinated in cooperation with Defense, Justice, Selective Service and General Counsel of the White House.

Objectives:

1. Emphasize the role and function of the Clemency Board and keep in perspective their rather limited jurisdiction.
2. Emphasize large role of Defense and Justice at the operating level of the program.
3. Urge close coordination and cooperation with General Counsel departments of Defense, the Deputy Attorney General and the General Counsel of the White House.
4. Urge restraint on staff requests; stress money limitations and present funding arrangements through departments rather than new legislation which will be subject to crippling amendments.
5. Finally, suggest a meeting of the following: Chairman Goodell, General Counsel Hoffman (Defense), Silberman (Justice), Marsh and Buchen to discuss the program generally and iron out difficulties.
6. It is most important that you discourage attempts of Goodell and his staff to expand the jurisdiction of the Clemency Board without concurrence of Defense, Justice, and your General Counsel.
7. Finally, it is most important that the guidance and direction of OMB be followed in the administration of the Clemency Board.

ADDRESS REPLY TO THE DIRECTOR OF SELECTIVE SERVICE

December 4, 1974

Dear Ted,

By letter of November 21 I transmitted to you a copy of a memorandum which I had sent to Mr. Jay French reminding him of the need to discuss the fiscal year 1976 appropriations necessary to support the President's reconciliation program.

Today I find that I must send you this additional data on this subject since there will be action on the matter of the fiscal year 1976 funds for Selective Service which impacts directly in this area during the course of this week.

I am advised that the Director of the Office of Management and Budget will speak with the President or someone for the President on Tuesday of next week in connection with the fiscal year 1976 budget. Also, during the course of that discussion, he will offer for the President's consideration several alternatives as to the structure and activity level of the Selective Service System as a whole during fiscal year 1976. While I do not wish to trouble you with the organizational and budgetary problems of the Selective Service System for fiscal year 1976, I think it essential that I point out to you that the alternatives offered by the Office of Management and Budget to the President on next Tuesday are such that the Selective Service System, as you and I know it today, will be unable to continue its participation in the President's reconciliation program in any of the alternatives except for the first. The first alternative to be offered by OMB is that which describes the organizational procedures and structure, and the dollars therefor, which I submitted as my budget submission to OMB earlier this year. It is this structure which, in my view, is essential if we are to perform the reconciliation services for the President as required in Executive Order 11803.

In the event an alternative other than Alternative 1 (i.e., Alternative 2, 3 or 4 as offered by the Director of OMB) is the choice of whoever makes the choice for the President, I think I should point out that serious consideration should be given to assigning to some other agency the functions now entrusted to the Selective Service System in connection with the President's reconciliation program. My guess is that there are several other Federal agencies which could do this work -- the Department of Labor, the Department of Agriculture, or almost any other agency which has a structure of regional offices throughout the country. I suspect that there will be a need to provide for the employment of at least 400 people by whatever agency is chosen to insure the continued placement and overview of the individuals working in the alternate service program through fiscal year 1976.

A copy of my comments to Mr. Ash concerning the budget alternatives he intends to offer is attached. I have informed Mr. Ash of this reference.

Sincerely,

Byron V. Pepitone
Director

Alternatives

#1 Maintain the current system intact. Eighteen year old males would register within 30 days of birthday and local boards would classify about one-fourth of the eligible pool. In addition to a national headquarters, 56 State headquarters and 632 local board administrative sites are maintained.

#2. Suspend local board operations and defer all standby classification processing until induction authority is requested. Register on a once-a-year basis. Local board members appointed during standby in order to minimize time required to reconstitute local board operations in a crisis.

#3. Same as #2 but phased over a 21 month period to provide time to develop new procedures and determine viability of annual registration. No amendment.

#4. Suspend both State headquarters and local board operations and defer all further registration and classification activity. While this alternative does not meet the DOD requirement in a full mobilization, it would be adequate under all but the most pressing circumstances. This posture requires amendments to the Selective Service Act.

MEMORANDUM FOR MR. ROY L. ASH

SUBJECT: Fiscal Year 1976 Budget - Selective Service System

Thank you for the opportunity to comment on the four alternative funding levels for Selective Service in fiscal year 1976, which I am informed will be made available to the President early next week.

I can only support Alternative 1, for the following reasons:

1. Conceivably, the organizational posture proposed by Alternatives 2 and 3 could be assumed without changes in the Military Selective Service Act. However, under these alternatives it would not be possible to meet DoD manpower requirements as identified in the letter from Assistant Secretary of Defense (Manpower and Reserve Affairs) William K. Brehm dated June 25, 1974 (copy attached) without the adoption of new procedures which, in my opinion, will without question require major changes in the Military Selective Service Act.

2. In my view, the Congress will not be receptive to the required changes. I would be hesitant to recommend to the President that he attempt to have the Military Selective Service Act modified during the first session of the 94th Congress, since the Chairmen of the Armed Services Committees of both Houses of Congress have each advised me personally that they are not in favor of considering a modification of the Act at this time.

Mr. Roy L. Ash

3. Section 672(a) of Title 10, U. S. Code requires that Selective Service make a determination of the availability of members of the Standby Reserve who are being recalled to active duty in time of war or national emergency. This may or may not be associated with a resumption of inductions. With the elimination of operating local boards under Alternatives 2, 3 and 4, the timely processing of these Reservists would be significantly delayed for the period of time required for rebuilding the local board structure.

4. The total employment ceilings as identified with Alternatives 2 and 3 are in my view grossly inadequate to perform the tasks and functions associated with these alternatives.

5. Finally, with respect to Alternatives 2 and 3, they fail to provide an organizational structure sufficient to carry out the functions of the President's reconciliation program as required under Executive Order 11803. Although the footnote indicates that Alternatives 2 and 3 provide $1 million and 66 additional employees to fund the Reconciliation Service Program, I submit that the added dollars and personnel are not sufficient to fund this program without the basic structure of the present Selective Service System.

6. Alternative 4 is completely unacceptable because it would require major changes in the law and would not have the capability of meeting minimum DoD requirements as identified by Mr. Brehm in his letter of June 25, 1974.

As the President personally is likely to recall, there has been considerable support in both Houses of Congress for the concept that until the Administration has requested and Congress has granted induction authority, the nation does not need an organization to perform classification and other local board operations, and that registration can be performed when and if required, without a nationwide Selective Service organization. Legislative proposals to repeal the Military Selective Service Act have been introduced in both Houses. This is basically the scheme of Alternatives 2 and 3. If the Administration should thus offer proof of the claims of opponents of the continuation of the Military Selective Service Act, the repeal of the Act by the new Congress will be difficult to prevent. If termination of the Act is acceptable, it would seem better to simply make the proposal.

A copy of these comments have been provided for use by Dr. Theodore Marrs, Special Assistant to the President, as a result of his responsibility in connection with the President's reconciliation program and my views as stated in numbered paragraph 5 above.

Mr. Byron V. Pepitone

Dear Byron:

On behalf of the Secretary of Defense, I wish to express wholehearted support for the continued existence of a viable stand-by draft apparatus under the Selective Service System.

Should our nation in the future undergo a full mobilization, the sustained operations of the Armed Forces would be dependent on timely supply of new soldiers, sailors, Marines, and airmen. Initial personnel demands for mobilization would be met by our active and Reserve forces. Subsequent demands would be met by new accessions obtained as necessary through the Selective Service System. DoD support for the stand-by draft apparatus is based on a possible wartime mobilization situation.

The best way to assure that orderly and equitable procedures are used to meet the total personnel demands of the nation during mobilization is to rely on the principle of Selective Service. Those who can best serve the nation by working in critical civilian occupations should do that; those who must remain to support others should do that; those who are available and suited for military service should do that on an equitable basis. The object is to achieve the most effective use of personnel to preserve the security of the United States and resolve successfully the crisis which brought about the mobilization.

We are reviewing DoD mobilization personnel requirements. Our initial conclusions are that the stated capability you have built into your Concept "A" plan of operations is the minimum acceptable to DoD for full mobilization. Concept "A" involves registration and pre-classification of several year groups and allows you to provide over 480,000 new accessions to DoD between M+30 and M+180 days. As our perception of personnel demands for full mobilization improves, some adjustments to this capability may be needed, but the need for a viable stand-by draft apparatus of at least this capability is, as far as we are concerned, proven. Without such a system, the nation would be forced to rely in the future, as it has in the past, on slipshod and improvised methods of wartime personnel procurement.

You may count on our support. We will be pleased to assist you in any way in establishing formally the need for a viable stand-by draft apparatus.

Sincerely,

William K. Brehm
