MEMORANDUM TO THE PRESIDENT

THE WHITE HOUSE

SUBJECT: Gifts for Pakistani Prime Minister and Begum Bhutto

We have been advised that, although forewarned of our modest/token gift program, the Pakistani Prime Minister and Begum Bhutto are bringing you a "painted screen", Mrs. Ford a "carpet" and your children "tennis rackets" and "chess sets". Upon the recommendation of the Pakistani experts of the Department of State, I am recommending the following as a response in kind, the absence of which might give offense to your guests. These gifts have all been drawn from objects purchased for use as official gifts prior to last Summer. Your and Mrs. Ford's use of them now will demonstrate one more aspect of your determination to reduce spending.

For the Prime Minister --

A walnut and leather double penstand ^{with} ~~with 14 Karat gold~~ pen and pencil, together with a matching desk paperweight, both mounted with large enameled Presidential Seals, in leather and suede presentation case.

For Begum Bhutto --

Custom-designed, hand-made brooch ~~of stylized gold bands one of which is inset with 12 small diamonds~~, in light blue leather presentation case stamped "The White House".

For the Prime Minister and Begum Bhutto --

Inscribed ~~silver~~-framed photograph of you and Mrs. Ford with the Bhuttos at the White House Dinner, with the ~~following suggested~~ inscription:

"To His Excellency Zulfikar Ali Bhutto and Begum Bhutto,

With every warm good wish on the occasion of your visit to Washington,

Gerald R. Ford

Betty Ford

February, 1975"

For the two Bhutto Sons (one of whom, Mr. Murtaza Bhutto, will be present for the visit) --

~~Tiffany~~ silver round stud boxes lined in blue velvet, their lids mounted with enameled Presidential Seals.

For the two Bhutto Daughters (one of whom, Miss Sanam Bhutto, will be present for the visit) --

Lenox china large leaf-shape bowl for Miss Sanam Bhutto, and

Lenox china pair of concave-cylindrical-shape vases for the other daughter.

Henry L. Catto, Jr.

THE WHITE HOUSE
Office of the Press Secretary to Mrs. Ford

The President and Mrs. Ford will host a black tie dinner honoring the Prime Minister and Begum Zulfikar Ali Bhutto of Pakistan Wednesday, Feb. 5 at 8 p.m. Jazz Musician Billy Taylor will entertain in the East Room following the dinner.

The decor selected by Mrs. Ford for the State Dining Room continues to stress American folk art, focusing on Indian basket weaving. The centerpiece on each table represents the handiwork of a different Indian tribe from a different part of the country. Among those represented: the Cherokee tribe of North Carolina; the Oneida (Iroquois) of New York; the Chitimacha of Louisiana; the Hopi of Arizona; the Makah of Washington; and the Penobscot of Maine.

The baskets are from 20 - 150 years old and are made of natural materials, such as straws, grasses, twigs, vines, roots, shells and feathers. They were originally made for utilitarian purposes and used as water jugs, for storage of grain and other materials, etc.

Each handmade Indian basket will be filled with arrangements consisting of either dried flowers, fresh wild flowers or a combination of vegetables, fruits and bread. One table's centerpiece will incorporate an arrangement of several of the smaller baskets. The President's table will be decorated with a large globular basket fashioned by Mission Indians in California. The basket incorporates eagles in the design.

The colors in the arrangements are based on earthen shades, with dried arrangements ranging from off-whites to beiges to browns, and wild flower designs incorporating yellows, golds, oranges and rusts. The dry arrangements will use grasses, seed pods, leaves, feathers and bleached ferns. The flower-filled baskets will incorporate freesia, mimosa, ranunculus and tiger lilies. Tomatoes, eggplants, mushrooms, lemons and fresh baked loaves of bread will be used in other arrangements.

The baskets are on loan to the White House by the Museum of the American Indian in New York, which houses the largest Indian collection in the world. Surrounding the basket centerpieces will be candlesticks made from antique wooden spools.

The table arrangements were created by Jack Bangs, chief designer for The Gazebo of New York, who donated his services to the White House. Also assisting with the dinner was Susan Hutchins of New York, who acted as museum liaison.

The Johnson china is being used on the bright pink taffeta and antique satin tablecloths. Grosgrain ribbon in a bright persimmon shade will be used to tie the white linen napkins.

The menu: consommé with brandy; supreme of pheasant veronique with wild rice; brussels sprouts amandine; endive and watercress salad; Port-Salut cheese; Grand Marnier soufflé; and demitasse. Wines to be served are Freemark Abbey Cabernet Sauvignon with dinner and Schramsberg Blanc de Blancs with dessert.

Dancing in the Grand Foyer to the Marine Dance Combo will follow Dr. Taylor's performance.

MEMORANDUM

January 23, 1975

[redacted] [redacted]

SUBJECT: Information concerning the table decorations for the upcoming State Dinners

The Gazebo of New York (will work at both the British and Pakistani dinners)

The Gazebo of New York has been in existence since 1971. They are floral designers who have worked with clients on an international scale. They do much work in silk flowers and dry arrangements. Their two New York stores carry wicker furniture (probably the largest collection in the U. S.), quilts, pillows, baskets, and other items of Americana. The items are handmade; The Gazebo aims to encourage the crafts.

The owner of The Gazebo is Mrs. Virginia Mapel. The Gazebo's top designer is Jack Bangs. Clients have included [redacted]

[redacted] renowned members of the theatrical world, newspaper circles, and United Nations diplomatic corps.

The Decoy Collection (to be used at the British dinner)

The Decoy Collection is a part of the Museum of American Folk Art in New York. The director of the Museum is Mr. Bruce Johnson. The Museum assembles four or five exhibitions a year, in which some aspect of American folk art is featured. Previous exhibitions have centered around hooked rugs and other needle arts, painted tinware, weathervanes, and Early American toys.

The Decoy Collection was received as a gift from Mr. Alastair B. Martin, a trustee of the Metropolitan Museum of Art in New York and noted collector of various art forms. Adele Earnest, a trustee and founder of the Museum of American Folk Art, is noted as an authority on decoys and has written The Art of the Decoy.

The Collection was shown at the Federal Pavilion at Expo '67 in Montreal. The Museum of American Folk Art exhibited the collection in 1968. Various other institutions have hosted the exhibit, including The Columbus Museum of Arts and Crafts, Columbus, Georgia; The Museum of Arts and Science, Port Huron, Michigan; and The Hopkins Center Art Galleries, Dartmouth College, Hanover, New Hampshire.

The Indian Basket Collection (to be used at the Pakistani dinner)

The Indian Basket Collection is housed by the Museum of the American Indian in New York. The Museum's director is Dr. Fred Dockstadter. The Museum was founded by Dr. George G. Heye, a collector of Indian items.

The Museum has the largest Indian collection in the world. Articles come from North, Central, and South America. Special exhibitions are also arranged by the Museum. The upcoming exhibition will feature the paintings of a noted Navajo artist.

(At the time this information was gathered, the specific Indian baskets to be used at the dinner had not yet been chosen. Thus, Dr. Dockstadter could not elaborate on the Indian baskets themselves, but gave us information only on the Museum of the American Indian.)

EXCHANGE OF TOASTS
BETWEEN THE PRESIDENT
AND
ZULFIKAR ALI BHUTTO
PRIME MINISTER OF THE
ISLAMIC REPUBLIC OF PAKISTAN

THE STATE FLOOR

9:56 P.M. EST

THE PRESIDENT: Mr. Prime Minister, Begum Bhutto, and our distinguished guests from Pakistan as well as the United States:

We are deeply grateful that all of you are here and we are especially thankful that the distinguished guests have come to our great country.

We think this is a very special evening. We, as Americans, have the honor of welcoming a true friend of America, the Head of State of Pakistan, to our Nation's capital, Washington, D. C.

I am delighted to have had the opportunity this morning to meet with the Prime Minister. We had a fruitful, beneficial and enjoyable meeting this morning and we are delighted, Mr. Prime Minister, to have you and Begum Bhutto with us this evening.

We are also especially pleased and honored to have your two children -- two of your four children -- with us on this occasion. I think it is interesting, but also somewhat unique, that your children are going to school in our great country and we are delighted to have them and we hope that they have enjoyed themselves, and are enjoying themselves. We are not only pleased but honored that they are with us in the United States for this experience.

It is, I think, particularly noteworthy, Mr. Prime Minister, that you and Begum Bhutto are here and that she has particularly joined you in this visit, and she has joined you on previous occasions working for the best interests of your people in your country and I compliment her as well as yourself for these efforts.

The world knows, Mr. Prime Minister, that the burdens of leadership fell on you at a time in the history of Pakistan which was one of the most critical and the most serious in the history of your country.

MORE

But with confidence and great determination, you have guided your nation through a period -- an era -- of peace and reconciliation. Your accomplishments, as well as your courage, I think, have received the highest praise, both within your country and without.

Our first official meeting represents another link in the chain of a much longer association between the leaders and the peoples of Pakistan and the United States. And we want to maintain and to strengthen that relationship and that friendship that has been most important between your country and ours.

The talks that we had this morning, I think, helped to strengthen and to broaden that relationship.

As we know, peace in the world depends upon peace in its various parts. Your leadership, Mr. Prime Minister, has enabled Pakistan to move forward with India toward achieving peace in that very important area of the world.

I am tremendously impressed by the efforts that you are promoting in economic and agricultural developments for Pakistan despite the serious problems posed, as we all know, by the rapid rise of price levels for essential goods in your country.

And as you persevere, Mr. Prime Minister, persevere in your task, you may be sure that this Government regards the sovereignty and the territorial integrity of a strong, secure and prosperous Pakistan as a fundamental element in maintaining regional and world peace.

So, if I might, Mr. Prime Minister, let me propose a toast to you, Prime Minister and Begum Bhutto, to the ideals and to the hopes they personify so very well, and to further strengthening of our relations between our two countries.

To Prime Minister and Begum Bhutto.

PRIME MINISTER BHUTTO: Mr. President, Mrs. Ford, distinguished friends:

At the outset, I would like to say that my companions -- those who have come with me from Pakistan -- on their behalf and on behalf of the people of my country and on my own behalf, we would like to thank you, Mr. President, and your Government for the very warm and generous hospitality which you have extended to us.

I have been here on a number of occasions and each occasion has been a memorable one because it has been a journey to the capital of a great power, a superpower, a power to reckon with, a power which has a role to play in the tranquilization of the world situation and has exercised a formidable influence on men and matters for a very long period of time.

MORE

Here at this table we had the honor of having a very congenial conversation with Mrs. Ford and the very dangerous man sitting on my right. (Laughter)

He told us that this evening he came to the White House in a taxi, so that reminded me of one occasion during my many visits to your great capital, and it was in 1965. President Ayub was then in charge of the destiny of our country and we had prolonged discussions with President Johnson.

The discussions went well, but at the same time we left the room in a little distress, so I and my companions went to all the night clubs in Washington. (Laughter)

And when we left the last place, we told the taxi driver to take us to Blair House. He said, "Are you kidding?" (Laughter)

Be that as it may, we warmly cherish our friendship and our association with the great American people.

As I told you this morning, Mr. President, the vitality and the energy of the American people have impressed us very much and has impressed the world at large.

I have often thought of your great values. I might be wrong, but I feel that it lies in your institutions and it lies in the leadership that the American Government has given to its own people and to the world at large at critical times.

These are critical times, and you have been summoned by destiny to take charge of the affairs of your country at a time when the world stands at the watershed. And many of your decisions might make or mar the course of events.

We feel that with your vision and with the very able leftenants that you have, especially in the field of foreign affairs, that you will overcome one challenge after another and promote the cause of peace and good will.

MORE

There are problems which confront you internally, there are problems which confront you in the world outside -- the Middle East, Europe, your efforts to promote a detente, your dialogue with China -- all the world watches. Every step you take is observed and so we hope, with the passage of time, we will turn the corner, all of us put together -- the whole world.

You will make a very major contribution but whatever little contribution small, insignificant, under-developed countries like ours can make, we will all be happier to see a happier world.

And I can assure you that on our part we will try to promote peace and consolidate the tissues of peace. We would not like to add tension to tension. We would not like to aggravate the situation in our own region, and the world at large can move forward to a situation where our children, at least, will feel more secure and happier and they will admire the role that this present generation made to achieve that noble end.

This is a beautiful world and we must preserve its beauty. Future generations should not say that, like Shelley, the superpowers found an Ozymandias. They should say that the superpowers, with bravery, and with vision, and with courage reckoned with the problems and overcame them.

We know that you have the capacity and the material and the ability to do so and we leave your shores feeling more reassured with the measures that you have taken to promote those Olympian ends.

Finally, Mr. President, I would like to reiterate our gratitude to you, to your Secretary of State, to your colleagues here, to the Senators we met today, for the understanding of the problems that we face and for their objective appreciation of our difficulties. This has been a fruitful and a constructive visit.

I better not say more than that because the Secretary of State has told me that you must be very careful of what you say. (Laughter)

So, I would like everyone to join me in a toast to the President of the United States, to Mrs. Ford, to the great American people and to the role of the United States in the consolidation of world peace.

Mr. President.

THE WHITE HOUSEJOINT STATEMENT ON THE OCCASION OF PAKISTANI PRIME MINISTER ZULFIKAR ALI BHUTTO'S
OFFICIAL VISIT TO WASHINGTON

President Ford and Prime Minister Bhutto held cordial and useful discussions during the Prime Minister's visit to Washington February 4-7. They welcomed the opportunity to establish a personal relationship in the spirit of cooperation and understanding which has traditionally existed between leaders of the two countries. The President and the Prime Minister stressed their commitment to the strengthening of the close ties which have been maintained between the United States and Pakistan for many years.

The two leaders discussed the important international political developments of the past eighteen months with particular emphasis on the significant steps taken in furthering international detente, the vital efforts to secure a just and lasting peace in the Middle East, and proposals to increase cooperation between developing and developed countries.

They also reviewed the important steps taken to bring about more normal relations among the nations of South Asia. The Prime Minister expressed Pakistan's determination to continue to play a constructive role in the search for peaceful solutions to regional disputes, so as to promote the establishment of durable peace in the Subcontinent. President Ford assured the Prime Minister that support for the independence and territorial integrity of Pakistan remains an enduring principle of American foreign policy. The two leaders also discussed their mutual security concerns in the context of the commitment of their Governments to the strengthening of regional and world peace.

President Ford expressed his deep sympathy over the loss of life resulting from the devastating earthquake which recently struck northern Pakistan. The Prime Minister expressed his appreciation for the contributions of the United States Government toward the relief efforts now underway.

The Prime Minister discussed the serious shortfall experienced by Pakistan in foodgrain production in recent months. He noted his concern with drought conditions which persist throughout the wheat-producing areas, a problem which has been accentuated by the unexpected delay in commissioning the Tarbela Dam. He noted, in this regard, his appreciation for the substantial assistance rendered Pakistan under the PL 480 program during the past several years. President Ford told the Prime Minister that the United States Government was pleased to be able to offer 300,000 tons of wheat under PL 480 Title I for immediate delivery, in addition to the 100,000 tons already made available during this fiscal year. The President assured the Prime Minister that Pakistan's needs would continue to receive priority consideration in determining additional allocations this year and next.

The two leaders also reviewed economic cooperation between the two countries. Prime Minister Bhutto described the important economic development programs now underway in Pakistan, including the high priorities placed on agricultural development and population planning -- areas in which assistance from the United States and other donors has made a valuable contribution. President Ford pledged continued priority attention to Pakistan's development assistance requirements.

Prime Minister Bhutto renewed his invitation to President Ford to visit Pakistan. President Ford expressed his warm appreciation for this invitation and reiterated his hope that the visit would be possible later this year.
