

POOL REPORT

April 1, 1975 - A.M.

President departed residence at 9:15 am an hour later than schedule. Drove to Thunderbird Country Club five minutes away for round of golf with Fred C. Wilson, Leon Parma and Frank Jameson, described as a friend of the President's for 10 years. Jameson is in "tool research" business. Press Office didn't know name of firm but identified his partner as a Leo Wylor.

At the entrance to the country club, pool was turned away as the President's motorcade continued toward clubhouse. President's car trailed by a white Lincoln labeled "spare car" which carried his golf clubs.

We were told that Ford began the day with a swim in one of the Wilson pools.
