20th Anniversary

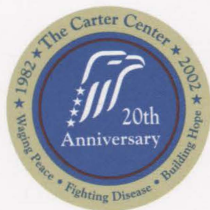

ON THE COVER

Twenty years ago The Carter Center was founded to wage peace, fight disease, and build hope among the world's poorest people. Since then, the Center has alleviated suffering and advanced human rights in more than 65 countries. The success of our work can be seen in the faces of people whose lives have permanently improved: Malian children once idled by the pain of Guinea worm disease now smiling and full of laughter, Chinese villagers boldly choosing their local leaders at the ballot box, a Sudanese child receiving a treatment that will save his sight. The Carter Center helps others learn to help themselves, offering them the tools and knowledge they need to improve their own lives. When people believe in themselves and their future, hope is born.

Noted Norwegian artist Ulf Valde Jensen created this original watercolor of a peace dove in honor of President Carter's 2002 Nobel Peace Prize award. A diploma, which includes the painting, and a gold medal were presented to President Carter at a formal ceremony in Oslo, Norway, on December 10, 2002. They are on permanent display at the Jimmy Carter Library and Museum at The Carter Presidential Center in Atlanta, Georgia.

This international recognition of President Carter's ongoing work through The Carter Center was made possible by the commitment and generosity of many partners whose support has helped millions of people improve their lives.
