THE PRESIDENT HAS SEEN . . .

Dear Mr. President and Friend Jerry Ford:

For we who have known you and loved you, this past week has been one of intense disappointment and personal sorrow. But I know that history will record your presidency as a brief moment of sanity and integrity during the seemingly endless turmoil of modern political times.

I'm sure that your well-considered judgements--beginning with the Nixon pardon and including your significant economic accomplishments and your finesse abroad--will prove to be milestones along that road through America's Third Century.

You may have taken office as a Ford.

We and generations to come know you are a Lincoln.

THE INCIDENT HAS BEEN

Dear Mr. President and Friend Jerry Ford:

For we who have known you and loved you, this past week has been one of intense disappointment and personal sorrow. But I know that history will record your presidency as a brief moment of sincerity and integrity during the seemingly endless turmoil of modern political life.

I'm sure that your well-considered judgement--beginning with the Nixon pardon and including your significant economic accomplishments and your foresight ahead--will prove to be milestones along that road through America's Third Century.

You may have taken office as a Ford.

So and generations to come know you are a Lincoln.
